Jeanie,

I am always pleased and take great pride in sending letters related to successful projects in which Gilbane was involved. The Rice University Jones School Project falls into that group and I want to thank MCA Communications for being a major contributor to the project's success. All of the technology systems throughout the building provide a wonderful learning environment for the students and a quality teaching environment for the faculty. MCA Communications played a hands-on role in this success through a very difficult schedule and many late Owner revisions. Your ability to overcome these obstacles is an obvious testament to your firm's commitment to customer satisfaction and taking pride in a job well done.

Thanks again to you and your firm for being "team" players on the Rice Jones School Project and delivering a building that Rice University will be proud of for years to come.
